The Secret to Success Is To Build Good Habits From the Start

Ever wonder what it takes to be an "A" student? Same. So we looked into what most successful students have in common. And here's the most interesting thing we found:

Students that log in at least 3 times per week and do something have an 82% chance of passing.

Something might feel a little vague, but it's also kind of empowering. Maybe some days, all you feel like doing is watching lectures. Other days, all you want to do is knock out a couple of quizzes. Go for it—as long as you're making progress at least 3 days a week.

So get in there and start building those habits!
